

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A camera for generating an image signal, and a camera installing part for installing said camera in a folder or a body. The camera is made to protrude out of the camera installing part when the folder is unfolded, and the camera is inserted into the camera installing part when the folder is folded. The camera installing part being formed in a hinge part for coupling the folder and the body.